Stock Market Looks Better, Dow Jones Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street gave the Nixon administration dramatic news Wednesday and the President apparently gave some of the nation's top businessmen some encouraging reports.

The Dow Jones industrial average — the most closely-watched indicator on Wall Street — climbed 32.04 points. It was the largest single-day rise ever recorded, and reversed, at least temporarily, the most prolonged stock market decline since the depression.

The index of 30 selected stocks rose to 663.20 from 631.16 — an even bigger gain than Nov. 26, 1969 after President John F. Kennedy was buried. That day it rose 32.03 points.

Nixon met an hour in Washington Wednesday night with 42 leading business and financial leaders. After the meeting, a major corporation executive told UPI "there wasn't much difference from what he has been saying" in Nixon's overall presentation.

Volume on Wall Street Wednesday was the heaviest since major banks announced a cut in their prime interest rates on March 25. Wednesday's turnover expanded to 17,640,000 shares. Advances held a 1,312 to 191 bulge over declines. Gains of $5, $6 and $7 a share were sprinkled throughout the list.

Nixon has predicted an economic "turn up" in the last six months of the year. Wednesday Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans said there was "no justification for the recent selloff in stock market prices." He said the market would resume its advance relatively soon.

Nation's Youths Not All Bad

(By United Press International)

The nation's youth have encountered severe criticisms lately, but this hasn't discouraged many from channelling their energies into areas that concern them.

Take Jack Rowe, for instance. He's going to graduate with honors from the University of Texas at Arlington Saturday. He's maintained a straight "A" average in four years. He goes to school every day in an iron lung. He was stricken with polio at age 5.

Environment concerns all. Youngsters are no exception:

BECKLEY, W. Va. — Matthew Brown, 11, wasn't satisfied the clean-up efforts in Beckley. So, he started his own campaign. He wrote a letter. His father's secretary mimeographed: 50 copies. Matthew mailed them to his neighbors. Mayor John McCullough praised idea.

BOSTON — The Boston Collegiate Council sponsored a cleanup drive last weekend. City officials closed downtown streets from dawn to dusk. The youths cleaned up 20 tons of trash, painted sidewalks and installed 551 new traffic signs.

SAN FRANCISCO — More than 300 Boy and Cub Scouts spent four hours last weekend planting 1,000 trees furnished by the San Francisco Examiner at McLaren Park. In praise of the work, Mayor Joseph Alioto said: "When you're old guys . . . you'll drive out here and see the trees you planted and you'll be proud."

Miss Dawn White Is Given Honor At School

Miss Dawn White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White of Arlington, Texas, formerly of Murray, has been awarded the VFW award for "most outstanding student of the Arlington Elementary Schools."

The award winner is age ten and a student in the fifth grade. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Aggie Lee Paschall and Porter White, both of Murray. Both of her parents, Frank White and the former Gerry Paschall, are graduates of Murray High School.

ITEMS STOLEN

One wheel and one tire were reported stolen from a trailer at the lot of Bonanza Mobile Homes on U. S. Highway 641 North to the Murray Police Department on Wednesday at seven p. m.

FIVE CITED

Five persons were cited by the Murray Police Department yesterday and last night. They were two for public drunkenness, one for driving while intoxicated, one for improper registration, and one for shop lifting.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Case History

Mental illness is beginning to be the subject of better and wider coverage in health insurance benefits programs. Labor unions and industries are developing programs, for example, and mental health services are springing into action to help not only individuals but also whole families.

The following case history of Mrs. R. and her family illustrates the point.

Mrs. R., a slight woman in her mid-40's, was having trouble that day on the factory assembly line. For several hours, her co-workers tried to make up for her. She seemed to have trouble moving her arm, and her face winced in pain.

At the lunch signal, Mrs. R. went to the shop steward and told him she was leaving for the day. He began walking with her to the locker room and asked if he could help since she appeared so distressed.

In the locker room, she broke down. She told of her family's troubles, her own, her husband's, and those of their teenage son and younger daughter. The shop steward suggested that she make use of her mental health benefits and get help for her problems. Only a few months before, he had gotten help for a problem with his son and the entire family's relationships had improved.

The shop steward gave Mrs. R. the union's pamphlet on mental health benefits and pointed out the list of resources from which she could seek help. She chose a nearby community mental health center which she had heard about. It was there that she stopped on her way home.

For the next few months, her family received a variety of services from the center at no cost to them under their mental health benefits. As the family crisis subsided with the help of the center, the family situation improved. Family therapy sessions had sensitized all the members not only to the father and husband's problems, but also as to what each had to do and what they had to do as a family.

The son was seen in therapy for several months to help him work out his feelings about his father and his own future. Mr. R., receiving intensive care at first, with medication and psychotherapy and a planned regimen of continuing treatment, was enabled to go back to work successfully.

Mrs. R. not only improved and was able to work without the previous difficulties, but also seemed to become happier and younger. Some days her co-workers, they say, tell her she looks 10 years younger and they want to know what her secret is.

Cottage cheese is recommended for all children for its muscle-building protein. But it does not replace milk, since some vitamin and mineral content is lost in preparation of the cheese.

Any Way It's Described, Lake Barkley Is State's Best Park

In the lexicon of today's advertising world, many words have lost their values. We are accustomed to having things over-stated; described, that is, in excessive terms. Thus, when something truly wonderful comes along, the writer finds himself devilishly frustrated in trying to use superlatives that are quite unequal to the occasion.

This problem becomes acute when writing about Lake Barkley State Resort Park in Kentucky's Western Waterland. Everything about the place is pluri-ultra and extravagantly superior. Any way you describe it, in the proud crown of Kentucky's state parks, the Lake Barkley family vacation resort is its most luminous jewel.

For one thing, it's the costliest. — Right at $13 million all told. And its accommodations are the most lavish, costing around $45,000 per guest unit. (That may well be the most prodigious outlay on any governmentally owned public guest facility anywhere. The furnishings alone cost some $350,000.)

For another thing, its assurance of success is so overwhelming that it's somewhere in a class with sunrise and taxes. Around 70 million people live within a day's drive of Lake Barkley. That's about one out of every three Americans. It's in the middle of one of America's fastest growing vacation areas and it's right smack dab across from Land Between the Lakes, a federal recreation preserve that attracted 1 1/4 million visitors in 1969, 330,000 of them campers. It offers some of America's best fresh water fishing.

Spectacular is a word that can scarcely be avoided when describing Barkley Lodge; Edward Durrell Stone, one of the world's foremost living architects, designed the breathtaking sweep of the building complex that comprises the guest units and other facilities of Barkley Lodge. There are 124 of the overnight units. Their two perfect arcs form a semicircle between the central building and the lake. A stone plaza that includes the pools and sunbathing deck bisects the semicircle and leads to a boat dock. All the guest units have a private balcony looking out over Lake Barkley. The entire complex of landscaping and buildings is an expression of flawless symmetry in stone, massive wooden beams and sweeping expanses of glass. The bright dining room seats 250 people comfortably. Underfoot is a gay plaid carpet that covers the entire floor, almost 4,300 square feet in area. Overhead a heavily timbered, glass-encased vault soars three stories into the sky. Some of the huge beams are 58 feet long. Food is prepared in a kitchen that must be the ultimate dream of every modern chef. It's a vision of stainless steel, ceramic tile and gleaming porcelain. There's special provision for baking and the creation of fine pastries. And when the need arises, the cook can call on the space age's most advanced item of kitchen engineering, a microwave oven.

There are two additional dining rooms that are designed for large group meetings. Each of them can accommodate 150 people. Actually, then, around 550 people could eat dinner at the same time in Barkley Lodge. There are all sorts of amenities for visitors; a gift shop, a game room with table tennis, pool tables, cards etc., a 24-hour coffee shop, swimming and wading pools, a restful lounge with a great stone fireplace and a grand piano. There are other such fireplaces in the larger guest areas, all abundantly supplied with logs, of course.

In any of the lodge's public rooms at a glance. And if someone in the game room, for example, complains that the room is too warm or too cool, the clerk simply turns a knob and adjusts the temperature accordingly.

In addition to the pools there's a sand beach and a year-round marina with every sort of facility for boating and fishing. Boat launching ramps are in operation and hiking trails are open.

Scheduled for future opening are golf links, (a par 3 and a regulation 18-hole course,) arid stable and horse paths, a playground of ultra modern design, fully developed camping facilities for tents and trailers and much, much more.

Jim Host, Kentucky's commissioner of parks, still can't feel blasé about this stunning accomplishment.

"I've been all over this facility, time and time again," he says, "but I still can't quite believe it. Barkley Lodge is the most magnificent thing of its kind I have ever seen. It's absolutely first class in every way. I have watched it through to completion and, while I know there's been no money wasted, I also know that penny-pinching has never been allowed to rule. Top quality has always

Today is Thursday, May 28th, the 148th day of 1970 with 217 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1798 President John Adams was empowered by Congress to recruit an army of 10,000 volunteers.

In 1934 the Dionne quintuplets were born near Callender,

Ontario. In 1940 the evacuation of British, French and Belgian troops from Dunkerque on the coast of France, started. When it was completed, 337,000 reached Britain safely, more than 13,000 were killed. In 1955 director Albert Whitehouse of the United Steelworkers of America predicted automation of the nation's factories would lead to a two-hour day. He didn't say when it would happen.

Trevino Is Favored In Memphis Meet

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—"If I ever get any better, I'm going to be a helluva player," moaned chunky Lee Trevino, striking briskly off the 18th green after backhanding in a birdie putt on the run.

"I've got to see a doctor," the wise-cracking Texan told the crowd of autograph seekers and reporters clustered around him. "I've got some vertebrae out and my back is killing me."

Bad back or no, Trevino fired a three-under-par 67 in Wednesday's pro-am and is one of the favorites in the $150,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic which begins today at the short, tight and sun-baked Colonial Country Club course.

Dapper in checkered green pants and solid green shirt, the colorful Trevino called his score "only par out there" and predicted other sub-par rounds in the tournament.

Tour veteran Gene Littler added credence to that prediction with a sizzling 63 to finish lowest in the pro-am, and 37 others in the field shot par or better.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player bypassed the tournament to take a break before next month's U.S. Open. Despite the absence of golf's "big three" the tournament has attracted 21 of the 30 top money winners and 18 champions from 22 tour events already played this year.

This field includes defending champion Dave Hill, the only two-time winner here, and such notables as Masters champion Billy Casper, U.S. Open king Orville Moody and PGA winner Ray Floyd.

Others considered strong contenders for the $30,000 top prize money include Tommy Aaron and Tom Weiskopf, who finished 1-2 in last week's Atlanta Classic after a playoff with Homero Blancas, Dan Sikes and Lee Elder.

Kuhn Argues For Baseball Reserve

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn argued in Federal Court Wednesday that the game's controversial reserve clause helps equalize team strength, promotes the growth of players and the game and protects the integrity of the game to the public.

He said modification of the clause "would destroy the game as we now know it."

The reserve clause, which has withstood several previous court tests, is under attack by Curt Flood, $90,000-a-year outfielder traded last winter by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies. Flood asked Kuhn for permission to negotiate with other clubs and the request was denied, whereupon Flood refused to report to the Phillies and filed suit in court.

Kuhn argued baseball's case as the leadoff witness for the defense in the anti-trust suit. He said the Major League Players' Association's decision to support Flood's suit was "a serious mistake" and said the testimony by Hank Greenberg, Jackie Robinson and others who supported Flood "was too general."

"Throughout our history baseball has striven for equal strength," said Kuhn. "It flourishes when you have it and tends to pine when you don't." The trial is expected to continue today and then probably will be recessed until Monday.

NFL Owners Hold Meeting Wednesday

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Football League's owners went over the guidelines for the sale of a club at their Wednesday meeting, and also set up a rotation of the Hall of Fame Game at Canton, Ohio, through 1983.

The owners met to discuss the rules and regulations for owning an NFL club. Under the league rule, a sale must include a new owner with at least 51 per cent of the team's stock.

The discussion was prompted by the recent negotiations involving the proposed sale of the New York Jets to a group which included former New York Giants' Coach Alvin Sherman. The deal never came off, but Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the league owners might have vetoed it anyway because none of the prospective Jets' owners would have had a 51 per cent interest.

"I'm not saying it would not have been approved," said Rozelle, "but it might not have got the needed 20 votes out of 26. The lack of a 51 per cent owner enhances internal problems."

There currently are six teams in the NFL which do not have a 51 per cent owner because their organization preceded the establishment of the rule. The six are the Jets, Green Bay, Minnesota, Boston, Cincinnati and Oakland.

In setting up the Hall of Fame rotation, all 26 teams will have played at Canton by 1983. The Los Angeles Rams will meet the Houston Oilers in the 1971 game.

40-Year-Old Dick Hall Gains Fifth Victory

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer
Relief specialist Dick Hall, who will be 40 on Sept. 27, finds the generation gap is helping to widen the Baltimore Orioles' lead in the American League East.

The old man of the Baltimore mound corps threw just four pitches Wednesday night to beat the Cleveland Indians, 5-4, for his fifth victory in six decisions. To achieve the triumph, Hall induced Ray Fosse to pop out with runners on first and third, ending a three-run Indian uprising in the seventh inning.

Hall, who has been pitching in the majors for 13 years, had to admit "this is undoubtedly the easiest victory I ever earned." He has pitched only 20 2-3 innings this season and all but one appearance has been short and sweet.

Just in Time
The six-foot, six-inch, 230-pound Hall checked Cleveland just in time. The three runs provided the Indians with a 3-2 lead, but Baltimore came back in its half of the seventh inning to go ahead on Don Buford's two-run single. Starter Jim Palmer hit his first homer of the year for the Orioles as they maintained a 7 1/2 game lead over New York.

In other AL action, New York stopped Detroit, 4-2; Washington defeated Boston, 7-5; Oakland edged California, 4-3, and Kansas City tripped Chicago, 4-3. Milwaukee at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, Atlanta routed Houston, 8-1; Pittsburgh blanked Chicago, 4-0; Cincinnati beat San Diego, 6-4; New York shut out St. Louis, 3-0; Philadelphia topped Montreal, 3-0; and San Francisco mauled Los Angeles, 11-3.

Singles by Danny Cater and Curt Blefary accounted for three runs in the first inning, providing Yankee southpaw Fritz Peterson with his seventh victory in nine decisions. Joe Niekro suffered his fourth loss to square his record for the season.

Caps Washington Rally
Mike Epstein capped a three-run Washington rally with a two-run single in the seventh inning that enabled the Senators to make up a one-run deficit. Del Unser had three hits for Washington, including his first homer of the year. Rico Petrocelli connected for his sixth homer for Boston as Ray Culp dropped his sixth decision against three wins.

Back-to-back homers by Joe Rudi (No. 2) and Sal Bando (No. 8) in the sixth inning helped Oakland overcome California's 1 1/2 games back of first-place Minnesota in the West. Frank Fernandez also homered for the A's as Jim "Catfish" Hunter picked up his seventh win. Clyde Wright was tagged with his third loss.

Chicago suffered its sixth defeat in seven games as Ed Kirkpatrick and Bob Oliver each drove in two runs for Kansas City. Oliver hit his eighth homer of the year off loser Joel Horlen (5-5). Tom McGraw accounted for two Chicago runs with his first homer. Dick Drago won his third game for the Royals.

COLBERT OPTIONED
CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians today optioned rookie righthander Vince Colbert to their Wichita farm club. They had recalled him from the same team just 11 days ago.

No one is being recalled at the moment to replace Colbert on the roster although Steve Hargan may be taken off the disabled list.

SIGN TWO

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears, in search of defensive backs, signed two more prospects for the position Wednesday. They are free agents Jack Erdman from Fresno State and Mike Striver from San Diego State.

Striver also doubles as a wide receiver on offense. Erdman, who averaged over 40 yards as a punter, set a Fresno record for career interceptions.

Carty Paces Braves To 8-1 Rout Of Houston

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer
Rico Carty, who has hit in 40 of the Braves' 43 games, collected three singles and drove in a run to pace the Atlanta Braves to an 8-1 rout of the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

After recovering from the case of TB and a shoulder injury, Carty started late last year and hit .342 in 104 games.

Now he's back in his prime and is the first player in several years who'll take a .400 average into June. He's 15-for-28 in his last eight games for a .536 clip that's boosted his average to .432. He was hitting .436 when the 31 string was snapped.

"Everything is just lovely," Carty beamed after the win over Houston. "We want to win and we think we can."

The Braves wrapped up the victory with a six-run second inning. Carty singled in the first run of the inning to knock out loser Denny Lemaster and Orlando Cepeda then slammed Jim Ray's first pitch for a three-run homer. Phil Niekro, 5-6, pitched a five-hitter to get the win.

Other Games
In the other games, Pittsburgh blanked Chicago, 4-0; Cincinnati edged San Diego, 6-4; New York shut out St. Louis, 3-0; Philadelphia beat Montreal, 3-0; and San Francisco routed Los Angeles, 11-3.

In the American League, Washington beat Boston, 7-5; Kansas City nipped Chicago, 4-3; Baltimore defeated Cleveland, 5-4; New York topped Detroit, 4-2; and Oakland topped California, 4-3. The Minnesota at Milwaukee game was rained out.

Tony Perez hit his 17th homer to take over the major league lead—a two-run shot in the eighth inning that snapped a 4-4 tie—as the Reds topped the Padres. Clay Carroll, who came on after rookie Wayne Simpson was lifted for a pinch hitter with the Reds trailing by two, got the win.

Bob Moose pitched a four-hitter and Roberto Clemente batted in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the fifth as the Pirates beat the Cubs. Ferguson Jenkins, struggling with a 3-7 record, took the loss.

Jones Moves to Leadoff

Slumping Cleon Jones was moved to the leadoff spot by Manager Gil Hodges and he responded with a two-run, bases-loaded single in the fourth as the Mets beat the Cards. Gary Gentry pitched a three-hitter for the win and Steve Carlton took the loss.

Deron Johnson's three-run homer with two out in the top of the ninth gave the Phils the win over the Expos. Woody Fryman pitched a four-hitter for the win while Tom Seaver was the loser.

HEY MATE!! READY TO SHIP OUT?

Don't settle for just something that will float you and your family—get a good Boat—a real Boat—a WINNER!

We are in our second year as a factory franchised WINNER dealer, which incidentally, we believe is the best constructed fiberglass hull on the American market.

We were attracted to WINNER because of their unique construction of using a fiberglass grillage for strength and lifelong durability in the hull instead of wood, which will eventually rot, warp and deteriorate due to moisture which is always present.

So don't just settle for any ole boat just because it floats and it's cheap when you consider safety, comfort, durability—you will choose WINNER!

WINNER sold exclusively in Calloway County by Happy Holiday Travel, Inc., (Grayson McClure) at Panorama Shores.

We have a nice selection to choose from, including several inboard/outboard rigs—ready to go—ready to offer you and your family hours and hours of carefree happy, healthy recreation on Kentucky Lake and any other lake in the United States that you may wish to trailer your rig to.

We are not in the volume business—we are in the Quality business. We believe we are offering you the absolute most for your money when you stop to consider what you are getting.

Service on the power units is available all across the nation which means you are never but a few minutes away from service wherever you might go.

Here's something else certainly worth considering! We offer you a trial in the water with the unit of your choice before you buy. So often people have bought dry land rigs—pay 1000-1500-2000... maybe all the way up to 5-6000 dollars only to find out when they get it in the water it's not suited for their use. We are located on the bank of Kentucky Lake and in a moment's notice we will put the rig in the water—you be the skipper, see what it will do, how it runs, how it handles, how easy it is to load and unload from your trailer, will it pull skis—this is all important when you are spending your money!

Give us a chance to show you some quality Boats—WINNER Boats! You try 'em... You'll buy 'em!

When Grayson McClure tells you they're rite—they've just got to be rite—we'll make them that way! Buy WINNER... Be a WINNER!

'Realistic' dolls upset readers

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your approval of a "Mamma doll" who could have a "baby doll" horrified me, too.

I have young children and I know how they play, and it's not necessary for them to have such toys. A baby being born is beautiful and sacred, and not something for dirty-minded little boys to snicker at. And don't tell me young boys are not dirty-minded, because they are!

You may say, "If you don't want these toys, don't buy them," but how can you keep your children from seeing them if their playmates have them?

If sex is thrown at children too young they will be tempted to try it out the first chance they get. They will be doing what their toys will do and I think the toy makers owe it to our young folks to keep their toys clean. Even dolls with busts were a little too much for me.

ALSO HORRIFIED

DEAR ABBY: I have six grandchildren, and I am much more "horrified" to see them playing with toy tanks, machine guns, and pistols than I would be to see them playing with a doll who can wet her pants and give birth. Wetting the pants and giving birth are natural and normal, and we can't "protect" our young from the essential facts of life and the wonders of mother nature.

After all, many small children know where eggs and kittens and puppies come from, so what's wrong with a Mamma doll?

NOT SO HORRIFIED IN HORTON, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: If the toy manufacturers are allowed to make Mamma dolls who have baby dolls, there is no end to what they will be dreaming up next. "Dolls" are getting too realistic for my tastes.

Originally, the "doll" was a baby doll, which the child could "mother" and cuddle and pretend was her own "baby." This was fine and served a healthy purpose. Then along came some smart toy manufacturer who made a pretty, fully developed young lady doll complete with fancy wardrobe right down to girdles and brassieres. They even made a handsome man doll for the lady doll to play with. Of course, hundreds of dollars can be spent on clothes for these "dolls."

Such dolls teach youngsters that they can never have too many clothes.

Everything today is "commercialized." Toy manufacturers are not concerned about how their products affect children. All they care about is making money.

DISGUSTED IN BRIDGEPORT

DEAR ABBY: You deserve 10 lashes with a wet diaper for condoning the "Mamma doll" who actually gives birth to a "baby doll." Good grief, is nothing sacred?

DISAPPOINTED IN S. C.

DEAR ABBY: Until now I have agreed with you 100 per cent, but your answer to HORRIFIED who wrote about the Mamma doll who actually gives birth, left me horrified. You gave the impression that this kind of doll was all right because it was "educational." Well, how about making a Mamma doll and a Papa doll who can "mate"—that would be "educational," too. And why not go the whole route and have a Mamma doll who could have "contractions" and deliver? (They might even throw in a breech birth for one out of every 10 dolls.)

Also, they could have an "unwed" Mamma doll so she could have an abortion. Why not tell it like it is?

FULLERTON MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I have seven children who have watched our cat deliver kittens, but to give them a doll who can have a baby! Never! The reader who wrote to say that she was horrified was absolutely correct. It's sick. And you were wrong!

A new alarm system for homes and small offices is the portable, plug-in type. It utilizes radio waves to detect automatically any movement which, in turn, triggers alarms. It sells for under $400 but the manufacturer says comparable commercial systems involve a high rental or purchase plan — so high cost keeps installation out of reach of most homeowners and small businessmen.

You don't need special wiring and you're not bothered with a network of wires when using the new system. The new alarm also is tamperproof, the manufacturer says.

FAILING THE TEST IS THROWING AWAY YOUR DRIVING LICENSE FOR A FULL 6 MONTHS.

AND THAT'S A FACT

DRIVER'S FACT SHEET:

The law about drinking and driving is very precise. It fixes a scientifically measured limit beyond which it is ~~offensive to drive~~. Even if a driver uses his car in making his living the penalty stands.

The simple purpose of the penalties, and the Test itself, is to make the roads safer for all of us. They exist only to discourage drivers from drinking so much that they are a danger to themselves and others.

The stakes are high. The penalties are clear and just. In addition to automatic disqualification, a convicted driver can face a $ 500.00 fine - or even prison for 6 months.

FACT: Now you really can't ask a driver to have another drink. Conviction will cost him his license for 6 months and possibly a $ 500.00 fine or even prison.

Thermal Pollution Solved In Frost Threatened Area

A practical solution to a nationwide problem of industrial pollution of waterways is being demonstrated near Eugene, Oregon, in the peaceful valley of a fabled trout stream.

The problem arises from the huge quantities of hot water — as much as 750,000 gallons per minute — which are a by-product of large nuclear power plants and other industrial operations. This water, although clean, at 103 degrees Fahrenheit can "thermally pollute" streams, lakes, bays — even the ocean itself — by upsetting normal plant and marine life. Conventional methods of removing the heat from the water are enormously expensive.

But the Eugene pilot project makes beneficial use of the heat, and the water, to protect orchards from frost damage and to irrigate crops. It is believed that the same system could be applied to nuclear power plants, and other industries, in most areas of the U. S.

And another offshoot of the pilot project is a proposal to irrigate 4.7 million acres of semi-arid land in Eastern Oregon and Washington.

The present $11 million, three year program, sponsored by the Eugene Water & Electric Board (EWEB), a municipal utility, was designed and is being managed by the Hanford Engineering Services Division of Automation Industries, Inc. The demonstration irrigation system, using hot water off condensers of a Weyerhaeuser Co. paper mill near Eugene, is along the McKenzie River, rated by sportsmen as one of the top four trout streams in Oregon.

The water, ranging in temperature from 90 to 147 degrees Fahrenheit, travels from the paper mill through nearly three miles of pipeline to irrigate crops and orchards, then filters through the soil and is returned to the McKenzie at nature's temperature.

"At the Eugene project, we have created what virtually is a 170-acre hothouse environment for agriculture," said Herman Miller, project manager for Automation Industries.

Similar clean, but thermally polluted, water, of 95 to 103 degrees Fahrenheit, is also a by-product of atomic-fueled electrical power plants using boiling-water reactors.

The cooling tower is the alternative method of cooling hot water generated from condensers of nuclear power plants. This system not only is costly, but contributes nothing to the environment. A 400-foot-high cooling tower, which recirculates 750,000 gallons-per-minute of water in a closed system, currently costs about $14 million to construct and $150,000 a year to maintain Miller said.

Systems similar to the pilot project, at nuclear power plants which are proposed in eastern Washington and Oregon, could irrigate 4.7 million acres which now are being "dry-farmed" on a crop rotation basis at a low agricultural yield, and could create a string of 2,500-acre lakes for public water parks, Automation's studies show.

They indicate that a single 1,000-megawatt nuclear power plant (the size EWEB plans to build in the Eugene area) will discharge enough warm water (750,000 gallons a minute) to irrigate at least 100,000 acres of land. This would be more water than required for farm land irrigation, so holding ponds with multi-uses including fishing and havens for migratory birds would be constructed.

The effects on local economy of a nuclear power plant supplying thermal water for irrigation are vast. EWEB, in a written study of its existing project, estimated joint development of irrigation with nuclear power in the Willamette Valley of Oregon would provide an additional $25 million annually in farm income, plus another $85 million in related economic development a year.

Multiply those figures 20 times — the number of nuclear power plants now proposed for Oregon, Washington and Idaho to the year 1994 — and measure all related areas of business development and economic growth with an estimated $10 billion annual injection into the economy of the Pacific Northwest, according to Miller and the various research groups with whom he works.

Economic factors considered in Automation's analysis include increased employment, urban development, higher agricultural yields, an expanded food processing industry, recreational facilities and related generation of more tax dollars.

"There are now 4.7 million acres in the Umatilla Basin of Washington and Oregon which are being dry-farmed on a crop rotation basis," Miller observed. "Farmers there are getting only 36 bushels of wheat per acre without irrigation. If that dry land were irrigated, farmers could raise 139 bushels of wheat per acre, which is the normal yield for irrigated land, or plant multiple crops and orchards."

The EWEB project at Springfield, near Eugene, carries the endorsements of various government groups, including Oregon Governor Tom McCall's Nuclear Development Coordinating Committee and the Oregon State Department of Agriculture, as well as farm associations, naturalists and commercial and sport fishermen.

The governor's committee, in endorsing the Eugene program, stated: "This project, which involves approximately 170 acres of diversified agricultural land, will be highly useful in demonstrating the feasibility of using waters from nuclear power plants as well as other industrial sources."

"It is expected that success will be achieved in not only positive contributions to agricultural products, but also improved means of frost control and increased value of crops. This project marks one of the first efforts to utilize waste heat which otherwise would be classified as a pollutant."

Walter Leth, director of the Oregon State Department of Agriculture, said: "The use of warm water from thermal generating plants would be beneficial to agriculture and eliminate the need for expensive cooling towers."

"Demonstrations conducted by the Eugene Water & Electric Board using water from the Weyerhaeuser plant in Springfield proved to be very beneficial for frost and temperature control of growing crops."

Warm water for irrigation on the Eugene pilot project is provided free to the seven participating farmers on the McKenzie.

Automation Industries estimates that when the EWEB nuclear power plant and others in the Northwest become operational, the cost of thermal water to agriculture will be $25 an acre annually, compared with a current $89.70 per acre a year from municipal and privately owned water companies.

Water leaving the paper plant is pumped at a rate of 5,000 gallons per minute through a buried 16-inch steel mainline to the project site, where overhead sprinkler frost control is used on orchards, and conventional irrigation nourishes ground crops.

For frost protection in the orchards, 15-foot-high pipes standing above the tops of trees spray 70 to 90 degree water to prevent fruit bud icing on sub-freezing nights. Five on-site weather stations automatically sound frost alarms in the fields and farmhouses when the air temperature hits 35 degrees. This is when the warm water is turned on to protect trees and plants from icing.

In the spring and summer months, sprinkler heads are lowered to six inches off the ground. Although this valley is in a 40-inch annual rainfall, only a trace of precipitation can be measured in July and August. In these hot summer months, the water irrigates such crops as beans, corn, tomatoes and strawberries.

John M. Frame, president of Automation's Hanford Engineering Services division, said that he believes the company's operation of the Eugene demonstration project is giving it "valuable experience which will have many applications in the U. S. and perhaps other nations as well."

"In addition, our systems engineers are gaining a great deal of personal satisfaction out of this project. They have found a way of taking a waste commodity — in this case heat — and finding a practical use for it. And they feel they are contributing to our national goal of protecting the environment."

NO COLLATERAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Small Business Administration (SBA) says it now will make loans to disaster victims of as much as $4,300 without requiring collateral.

SBA Administrator Hilary Sandoval, making the announcement Tuesday, said that only $2,500 of such loans would require repayment. Under previous regulations, unsecured disaster loans could be made only if the amount to be repaid did not exceed $1,000.

FISH FOR GOLD

SENS, France (UPI) — They're fishing in the Yonne River today, but not for fish — for gold. In the past several days, passersby have found an estimated $8,200 in gold coins on the river bed.

The coins — including Mexican pesos, English sovereigns and Tunisian pieces — were spotted from the banks when the river level dropped to work on a new dam upstream.

The coins have been handed in to police, pending investigation.

Bards Will Rhyme At Lake Barkley

LAKE BARKLEY, Ky. — The third workshop for poets, conducted by Approaches magazine, with support from the Kentucky Arts Commission will be held at Lake Barkley State Park, June 26-28.

The workshop is for serious writers. Robert Hayden, a poet and faculty member at the University of Michigan, will direct the seminar type meeting.

Those who have not attended previously and would like to enroll should send three poems they would like to discuss and a letter containing pertinent personal information. A screening committee will base its acceptance of applicants on the material. A check for $7.50 to Mrs. Joy Bale, Approaches, 110 S. Maple St., Elizabethtown, Ky. 42701, should accompany the application.

Poems and applications must be received by June 3. The registration fee of $7.50, transportation costs and from the workshop, and meals except supper are the only expenses.

Rooms will be furnished. Double rooms will be used and applicants should indicate choice of a roommate if any.

The workshop is made possible through a matching grant to the Kentucky Arts Commission from the National Endowment for the Arts. For further information, write or call Mrs. Joy Bale at Elizabethtown.

TRAFFIC TOLL DOWN BUT WATCH THOSE HOLIDAYS

Kentucky's highway death toll for 1970 is well under that of previous years for comparable periods, but State Police fear rising holiday weekends — Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day.

A May 19 summary shows traffic fatalities of 330 this year running 56 fewer than for the similar period last year and about 45 behind 1966, the state's worst year.

State Police Director Charles B. Crutcher says, "we are a long way from predicting 1970 might be the safest."

Today's Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened strong in moderately active trading today. The list scored its biggest single-day advance on record Wednesday as the Dow Jones industrial average soared 32.04 to 663.20. The previous top gain for the closely watched blue chip barometer was on Nov. 26, 1963, when it closed up 32.03 in the first session following the assassination of President Kennedy. Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a gain of 1.45 per cent on 330 issues crossing the tape. Advances outdistanced declines, 227 to 46. American Telephone opened 1/4 higher at 44 1/2 on a block of 10,000 shares, while Magic Chef gained 1/2 to 15. J. C. Penney advanced 1/2 to 40 1/2, but Sears, Roebuck held unchanged at 54 1/2. In the automotive group, Ford edged up 1/2 to 40 1/2, with Chrysler also ahead 1/2 to 21 1/2.

"And I'm going to tell you something. If you think you're going to tear down my country's flag and destroy institutions my friends and members of my family have fought and died for—you're going to have to climb over me first."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In the fourth chapter of Daniel we find that the kingdom of God is an everlasting kingdom and in the 3rd chapter and the 4th and 45th verses it says that God will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed but it would destroy all other kingdoms of the earth. In the 16th chapter of Matthew, verses 18 and 19 Jesus the Son of God, tells His Disciples that He would build His church and that He would give the keys to His Kingdom. Now in the 28th chapter, 18th, 19th and 20th verses He tells them that all power in Heaven and earth had been given to Him, so He gives them some final instructions what to do, and tells them that He will be with them until the end of the world. In the 2nd chapter of the Book of Acts we find that Christ's church was established and the disciples used the keys to open the door to His Kingdom, that would last forever, and would destroy all the other kingdoms of the world.

So today the church must have the faith of Joshua. You remember, when God by the hand of Moses led the children of Israel out of Egyptian bondage and had promised to give them a land flowing with milk and honey. So Moses sent 12 spies into this land to see what kind of land it was. Ten of the spies came back with an evil report. They said it is a rich and wonderful country but we can never take it, it is just full of giants, it is a land that just eats up its people. We are like grasshoppers in comparison to them. You'll find this in the book of numbers, chapter 13 verses 31, 32 and 33. Joshua and Caleb agreed it was a wonderful land and that they had nothing to fear, that God had promised them the land and that He would go with them and give the land to them. But by the teaching of the ten spies the people had lost their faith in God. So they had to wander in the wilderness 40 years, until all the faithless adults were dead. But then by the hand of Joshua God led all the younger generation across the Jordan river into the promised land. In the Book of Joshua, chapter 21 and verses 43, 44 and 45 we are told that God kept His promise to the Israelites in full. Just so it is today. We have trained spies in our land, scaring the people with all kinds of giants. The intellectual giants teaching fake ideas. Then there are people teaching God is dead. Some even in the name of religion teach that the Bible is not the inspired word of God, that the virgin birth of Jesus is a myth, that the miracles of the Bible are all fables. We also have the atheist giants who deny the existence of God. Dark clouds are gathering fast. But we still have a few Joshuas on this earth today who believe that the kingdom that Jesus Christ established is an everlasting kingdom, and will break into pieces and destroy all other kingdoms on the earth.

We know that God made a two pronged promise to satan in the Garden of Eden; God said, "I will put enmity between thee and the woman and between thy seed and her seed; It shall bruise thy head and thou shalt bruise his heel." You we know that by the seed of the devil, the heel of Jesus the seed of the woman was bruised, when His physical body was crucified on the cross of Calvary. But when Jesus came forth from the grave triumphant over death, we need no other proof, that the other part of God's promise will be fulfilled. For when Jesus comes the second time; the head of the devil will be bruised, when he and all of his followers will be cast into the lake of fire, which will burn forever. But the kingdom of God, which was established by God's Son, the seed of the woman will never be destroyed. So we need not be scared by the giants of today. God has never failed to keep His promise.

REMEMBER SHUT-INS,
PROCLAMATION SAYS

Sunday, June 7, has been proclaimed "Shut-In's Day in Kentucky" by Gov. Louie B. Nunn. He urged citizens, neighbors and friends to remember those confined to their homes, hospitals or other institutions with visits and small gifts, and to continue the practice throughout the year.

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Who says money is tight and business is suffering? Nevada's gambling casinos reported record winnings of $132.8 million during the first three months of 1970. The record take, before taxes and business expenses, increased 19.4 per cent over the same quarter of 1969.

Television In Review

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dick Cavett, angered by numerous shouted interruptions, exchanged heated words with female hecklers in the audience during a discussion of the Women's Liberation Movement on his ABC-TV show Tuesday night.

Cavett drew rousing applause when, about halfway through the show, he finally lost patience with the hecklers who interrupted what was actually a good, intelligent—and at times, racy—discussion between playboy Hugh Hefner and two representatives of the women's movement, Diane Crothers and Holly Tannen.

The climax came when what sounded like a frantic woman's voice in the audience was heard shouting loudly. For the televisioner, it was hard to decipher because of the commotion, but it sounded as though the words "Fascist state" were used, among others.

Cavett asked if he could please have quiet so the discussion could continue. He told the hecklers he had two representatives of their cause in the discussion. And then, his anger mounting, he told the hecklers that if they couldn't behave, then "get the hell out of here."

The audience responded loudly with its applause, but the shouting continued—although, as throughout, it sounded like the work of relatively few but persistent hecklers. At this point, Cavett said that anyone who yelled from then on would be tossed out of the theater, and he instructed the pages and other authorities to do their duty. He also drew more applause.

Earlier in the discussion, Hefner had been interrupted and heckled. At one point, a woman shouted loudly and clearly: "You make all your money off the exploitation of women." She yelled that, as women, they were on hand to demand reparations for damages.

Cavett also observed that someone had called him a "male chauvinist pig." Yet the fact is that he was quite fair, as, in fact, were all the

Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Contest Opens

The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times are accepting entries in the 1970 Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards contest.

The annual competition sponsored by the two newspapers is named in honor of the late editor-emeritus of The Louisville Times, who gained national recognition as a conservationist.

Kentucky and Southern Indiana farmers and woodlands owners are eligible to compete for the $1,000 in cash prizes that will be awarded for good forestry practices.

The four top winners and their families will also receive all-expense-paid trips to Louisville for the annual Farm Awards Luncheon in February, 1971.

In addition to the top four prizes, special recognition will be accorded to the entrant with the best forest management program in each county that has five or more entries. The county winners will receive handsome, personalized wooden plaques proclaiming their achievements.

All Kentucky counties are eligible for the competition. Entry blanks and further information may be obtained from local foresters, conservationists, county agriculture agents, farm bureau offices, rural electric cooperative offices, and farm equipment dealers.

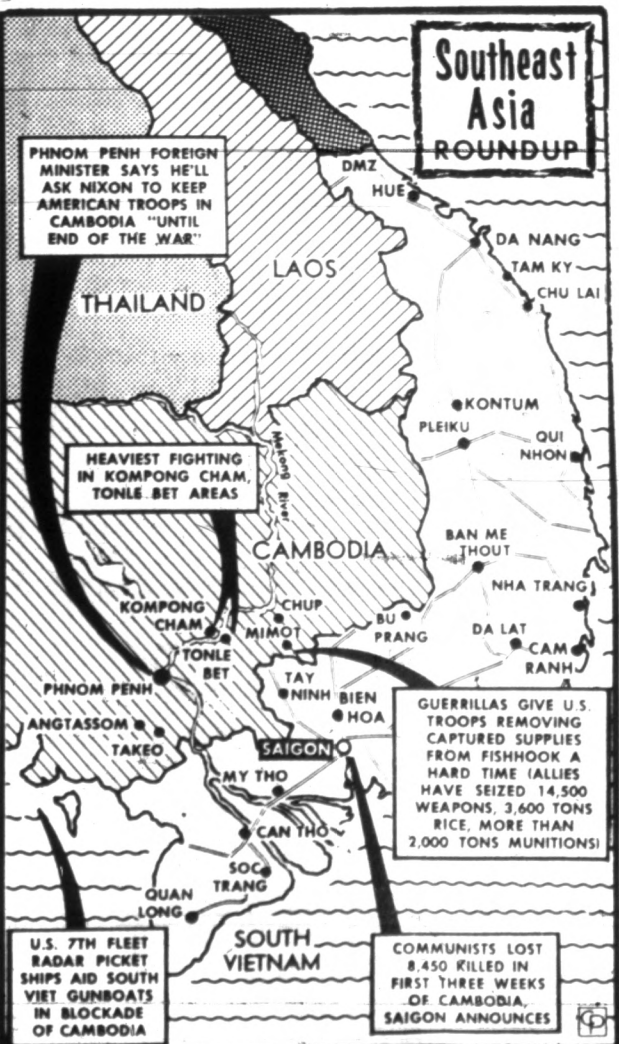

Entry blanks and information may also be obtained by writing to the Public Service Department, The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, Louisville, Ky. 40202.

The deadline for entries in the 1970 Tom Wallace contest is August 17, 1970.

PSC APPROVES $41 MILLION LG&E UNIT

The State Public Service Commission authorized the Louisville Gas & Electric Co. to add a 330,000-kilowatt, steam-turbine unit costing an estimated $41.3 million to its Mill Creek electric-generating plant.

participants, despite their personal views. It was basically a lively, serious, good-humored discussion, and very provocative television. And that's something.
